

As you can see from our logo, we have changed the name of the Portland Children's Investment fund to the Portland Children's Levy.

We made this move for a number of reasons: the Children's Levy more accurately reflects who we are and is better recognized by the general public who made children a higher priority by approving the Levy last fall and in 2002.

We are confident that calling ourselves the Portland Children's Levy will increase community awareness about our ongoing program investments in early childhood, after school, mentoring, child abuse prevention/intervention and foster care.

We thank you for your continued support.
